Cornerstone Church, Kuybyshev

Kuybyshev is a town of 45,000 people in Siberia, surrounded by Russian and Tatar villages. Average temperature -24°C to 25°C and is rarely below -36°C or above 31°C.

The Cornerstone Church in Kuybyshev was planted eleven years ago. It is now pastored by Dmitry Bolbat. The church has grown and needed to purchase its own building. They currently meet in a rented hall.

An excellent opportunity arose to purchase a large workshop/factory in the town. The state of disrepair meant that the price was low. A number of men in the church are skilled renovators, which makes it the ideal situation for the church.

The building will need to be cleared of old factory equipment, repaired and modified to become their church.

The roof has been repaired and work done on windows and floor heating.

Future required works:

- gas supply, purchase and installation of gas boilers;
- water supply;
- replacement of electrical wiring;
- finishing of walls outside and inside;
- pouring the floor in the building for worship;
- installation of the ceiling and ventilation;
- installation of women's and men's bathrooms.

Funds from the TCBC May appeal will assist the people in Kuybyshev to convert the factory into their own church.
